

Tracy Rae Hart

Biographical Information:

Tracy Rae Hart has loved poetry since her first grade teacher had the class stand up and recite their own creations. Later, she held positions as an Editorial Assistant at two medical publications, and was Editor of the in-house newsletter for GE Investments.

Although a creative writer for many years, Tracy began a psychotherapy career after receiving an MSW Degree from Smith College. As a therapist, she has published articles on relaxation and stress management in local parent's papers.

Following the birth of her child, she returned to her love and talent as a freelance editor and uses her clinical skills to underpin her job as a writer's coach. For nine years she has enjoyed this occupation. Can check out her web site at <http://www.editingwithhart.com/> or reach Tracy at editingwithhart@gmail.com.
